Poppy Coleman CMASAS Class of 2022

Poppy gracefully navigates the world of ballet in Los Angeles as a member of the prestigious Los Angeles Ballet. Despite a demanding dance schedule, she prioritizes her education at Santa Monica College, showcasing an admirable balance between artistic pursuits and academic responsibilities.

Her educational journey took a unique turn at CMASAS, an online school crucial in shaping her academic experience. Poppy highlights the most valuable aspect as the meaningful connections and effective communication with counselors and teachers. This personalized support system has been instrumental in helping her balance a professional dance career with academic commitments.

CMASAS emphasizes connection and communication, offering Poppy a supportive learning environment and essential skills like time management and self-direction. These skills prove invaluable as she navigates the demanding schedule of a dancer while excelling in her studies. The flexibility at CMASAS allows her to tailor school work to individual needs and time constraints, a feat she once deemed impossible.

What makes CMASAS stand out for Poppy is its unparalleled assistance compared to other online schools. The commitment to fostering community and providing personalized guidance has made her educational journey fulfilling and successful. This highlights the effectiveness of CMASAS' online learning model, showing that with the right support system, students like Poppy can excel academically while pursuing their passion for the arts.
